Office of the Chancellor

Dear Students:

I join the entire university family in saluting our graduates in the accomplishment of a great achievement. The memories of what you have achieved should always be cherished. This yearbook captures many memorable moments of the past year at WSSU, moments many of you will carry in your thoughts for the rest of your lives. I know that you will come to value the contents of this publication as symbols of your experience at WSSU.

Our graduates have had and are having a tremendous impact in the communities in which they reside. They are living up to the motto that defines us, "Enter to Learn, Depart to Serve." You carry that legacy with you, as well as the hopes and dreams of those who will come after you. You are well equipped to carry that legacy forward. I am as proud of your accomplishment as you are. As you transition into the global marketplace, please know that our hopes for your success go with you.

For you returning Rams, this yearbook captures the excitement of the past year you experienced and heightens your anticipation of the events to come that could become defining moments. We hope your experience has been both enlightening and fruitful. When you return in the fall, we will continue to deliver on our promise to do all we can to prepare you for the challenges ahead.

You will always have a place of honor within the community of the university family. Remember: as you depart your alma mater, take your place in the world to serve.

With very best regards,

Harold L. Martin, Sr.

2004 Coronation

At this year's coronation, the queen, Miss Kalechyci Anyanuw, and the king, Mr. William Dobbs were crowned.

Students are shown enjoying the night dancing to celebrate the coronation of Miss WSSU and Mr. Ram.

Miss WSSU was surrounded by friends and family members before being crowned queen of her kingdom. Former Miss WSSU, Rolanda Patrick, is seen here giving Kelechi love and support during her big day.

Former queens Mignon Turner, 2003-2004, Rolanda Patrick, 2002-2003, and Kendra Lipscomb, 2000-2001, showed their support to Miss Kelechi Anyanwu on her special day.

Students line up to dine with Miss WSSU and Mr. Ram after their coronation.

"Who are the prettiest girls in all of Ram Land?" Must be those ladies of the Gamma Lambda Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. who took the crowd to AKA school. PHOTO BY: GARRET GARMES

Debonair and charming, are two words that describe the brothers of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. This year's homecoming was made just a little sweeter as the Delta Chi chapter joined with Wake Forest's Omicron Chapter for a show-stopping performance.

"Distinguished Gentlemen" are the first words that come to mind when describing the brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. Their award-winning performance was attention-grabbing due to the reenactment of Kung fu practices by the Eta Nu chapter from ECU.

Comedian Joe Torry, the headliner at the 2003 Homecoming Comedy Show, came to return to his adopted SU family and help celebrate the 64th Homecoming celebration by hosting this year's step show, and blessing us with his comedic genius.

This year, students were given the opportunity to view possible options for the new residence hall, Gleason-Harston Terrace, which is scheduled to be completed by Fall 2005. The displays gave students visual images of what actual rooms in the hall would look like, from the carpet and walls to furniture. "I feel that this new residence hall is more desireable because it's not as expensive as Rams Commons, but just as nice and the fact that it is a new addition on campus," said junior Courtney Montgomery. This new residence hall will, hopefully, help with student overcrowding and allow more students to enjoy the luxury of staying on campus. PHOTO BY: LAKISA LEAKE

Although it was said by many that Generation X wouldn't care about this years presidential election, voters in the age range of 18-29 showed up in record numbers. Many organizations on campus encouraged students, along with faculty, to cast their vote for whomever; they just expressed the urgency of the young African-American vote in the election. WSSU also assisted students by allowing early voting in the Anderson Center, and also allowing student organizations to provide transportation to and from the polls. PHOTO BY: LAKISA LEAKE

Many students participated in this year's presidential election. Students by car loads went to vote on November 2, 2004. Jason Lewis helped encourage many students to get out and vote through his support of Sean (PDiddy) Combs "Vote or Die" campaign. PHOTO BY :LAKISA LEAKE

This year, students were able to witness firsthand the reconstruction of Greek plots. For many underclassmen, who weren't enrolled in 2003-2004, the plots seemed to be just a new addition but, to Greek-letter organizations and upperclassmen, it was a piece of WSSU restored back to its natural beauty. Because students were able to see the construction, it made anticipation of the finished product that much greater.

In an attempt to provide students with a variety of functions, the Office of Student Activities sponsored the first-ever Casino Night, in which they transformed TC Room 207 into a casino floor. During the night, students were invited to participate in various Las Vegas themed games, that included chips, cards and student dealers. Although the games were not played for "money," this night was still one of excitement and fun. PHOTO BY: GARRET GARMES

"They Call Me Bighouse" is the title of former Coach CE "Bighouse" Gaines' book, which was released during Homecoming week 2004. That wednesday he held a book signing for students and community supporters. Ajeane Knibye, Student Government Assoication president, said " I think that students should really take advantage of the legacy that WSSU has in our midst. We can learn from the legacy as well as be inspired to a higher level of achievement, by listening to those who have come before us." PHOTO BY: GARRETT GARMES

WSSU and Wake Forest University made history this year as part of the Athletic department's effort to prep the men's basketball team to become better players in any division. The Demon Deacons of Wake Forest hosted the Rams of WSSU for an all out battle on the court. The arena was packed with WSSU students, Wake students and community supporters. Although the cheerleaders weren't able to perform, that didn't stop them from cheering the Rams on throughout the game. PHOTO BY: OFFICE OF MARKETING AND COMMUNICATIONS

Move-In day is full of surprises. From meeting new roommates, to dealing with the horrors of not having a room at all, it is full of emotion. This year many upperclassmen were housed off-campus to make room for the largest class of freshmen in WSSU's history. Tierra Parsons, a senior psychology major said, "This is my final move, although it's hard for me to believe that I have reached this point. I know that it's time for me to leave and make room for more Rams to come and receive the same education that I received my four years here." PHOTO BY: OFFICE OF MARKETING AND COMMUNICATIONS

Across the world, technology has been advanced by the wonder of cellular devices. Students on WSEU's campus are constantly using their phones for personal and academic reasons, and for business usage. Students see these devices as a necessity, but, inside the classroom, many professors feel they can be a distraction. PHOTO BY: LAKISA LEAKE

Greek pride is very prominent on the campus of WSSU. Many organizations join together for a common cause to enhance students and the community through volunteer work, voter registration and forums. They are also known for their dynamic off-campus parties and presence in the Greek stepshows. CONGRATULATIONS

TO THE CIAA AND ITS DEDICATION TO ENHANCE THE LIVES OF OUR LEADERS OF TOMORROW

12 YEARS OF COMMITMENT For 12 years, Food Lion has committed to proudly support the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (CIAA) and its member institutions. Food Lion is the exclusive food/retail sponsor at all CIAA events and in television advertising. In addition, Food Lion is the title sponsor of the CIAA Women's Basketball Tournament.

30 YEARS OF VISION & OPPORTUNITY 30 years ago, the CIAA created the opportunity for women's basketball to be part of this exciting tournament. Acknowledging the need to share the skills of these talented women, the CIAA added even more success to this event. The expression of athleticism, skill and competitiveness exhibited by women's basketball took the tournament to another level.

60 YEARS OF SUCCESS Not only has this 60 years chronicled tremendously competitive basketball and basketball greats from HBCU's, it is one of the most heralded "fashion events" ever. A major key to the success of the tournament and the CIAA Conference is their strong focus on education.

THE CIAA AND FOOD LION... "DEDICATED TO A LONG-TERM PARTNERSHIP."
